

Gate City Goosebumps

MAY 2025

The Power of Belief

GATE CITY, NC – The cows weren't the only ones seeing stars last Thursday when local soybean farmer Elroy J. Spangler, 62, claims he was beamed aboard a glowing saucer and probed by a swarm of "six-eyed bee-alien hybrids" that communicated through smell and telepathic yodeling.

"I was just fixin' the gate when the whole sky turned to lemon sherbet," Spangler recounted to The Gate City Goosebumps. "Next thing I knew, I was floating into what looked like a giant stainless-steel beehive with mood lighting."

The farmer says he lost four hours of time and woke up with a faint triangular burn mark on his belly button and an insatiable craving for honey mustard.

"They kept buzzin' around and pointing at my molars. One of 'em even had a clipboard," Spangler added. "I think they were scientists—or alien dentists."

Local sheriff Bo Redding dismissed the encounter as "a case of moonshine plus insomnia," but several residents reported strange lights in the sky that same night. Security cam footage from a nearby Dollar General shows an orb-shaped flash around 11:43 p.m.—just minutes after Elroy's alleged abduction.

Adding fuel to the interstellar fire, famed ufologist Tammy Starbeam has declared this "the most credible multi-sensory abduction case" of the year.

"These weren't your average greys or reptilians," Starbeam said during a livestream. "We're dealing with an entirely new race—Apiariens, I call them. Think bees meets Elon Musk. They may be studying our agriculture... or prepping us for pollination."

This marks the third bee-related UFO incident in Gate City in two years.

Skeptics remain unconvinced, but Spangler says he's not backing down.

"I ain't crazy. I got bees in my dreams now," he said. "And they're callin' me... the Chosen Drizzler."

More as this story develops—including exclusive infrared images, alien sketch art, and an interview with Elroy's talking goat (who also claims to have been "contacted")

Monsters at the Museum

On April 22nd at Eleven Thirty Five at night, the Greensboro museum was attacked. The conflict began around the Aztec portion of the Exhibit. It is known that there was an altercation in the security office that resulted in the death of the culprit. What they didn't release to the public was this was no ordinary security smackdown. Sources tell Gate City Goosebumps that this rogue would-be art thief wasn't human. Reports of Superhuman strength, transformations, wings, fur, and fire have appeared on the scene. Speculations of alien interference in that Tour have buzzed about the community.

The questions continue to surface:

Who were they? What are they?

And why the focus on that particular exhibit?

The world may never know.

Is the GCPD Werewolves?

Rumor has it that wolves were sighted in the Downtown park chasing a purse thief. It is also rumored that the alleged thief was firing wildly at the wolves while screaming "It was a cop." One source, who wishes to remain anonymous, reported seeing what looked like a set of naked men running into an alley after the incident screaming and cursing at each other. A quote from a local police officer when asked about the incident in question, "what! Are you [redacted]?! NO WE DON'T HAVE WOLF BULLETS! Who started that [redacted] rumor ?!" What is the GCPD not telling us? Do they employ werewolves?

Step into Magic at The Secret Garden!

Hidden deep in the heart of the city lies a whimsical escape from the mundane, where the drinks sparkle and the vibes are pure enchantment. The Secret Garden is your ultimate fae-themed bar—where glittering cocktails, glowing gardens, and mystical music come together in a magical nightlife experience like no other.

Sip on our signature Pixie Punch, mingle under twinkling fairy lights, and let loose your wyld side. Whether you're a forest nymph, a curious human, or just looking for a little magic in your night—The Secret Garden is your portal to fantasy and fun.

Wings optional. Wonder guaranteed.

Open nightly—follow the fairy lights!

(21+ only No outside food or drink, of ANY kind)